The Hidden U.S. COVID-19 Pandemic: Orphaned Children – More than 140,000 U.S. Children Lost a Primary or Secondary Caregiver Due to the COVID-19 Pandemic

New study highlights stark disparities in caregiver deaths by race and ethnicity, calls for urgent public health response

One U.S. child loses a parent or caregiver for every four COVID-19-associated deaths, a new modeling study external icon published today in Pediatrics reveals. The findings illustrate orphanhood as a hidden and ongoing secondary tragedy caused by the COVID-19 pandemic and emphasizes that identifying and caring for these children throughout their development is a necessary and urgent part of the pandemic response – both for as long as the pandemic continues, as well as in the post-pandemic era.

From April 1, 2020 through June 30, 2021, data suggest that more than 140,000 children under age 18 in the United States lost a parent, custodial grandparent, or grandparent caregiver who provided the child's home and basic needs, including love, security, and daily care. Overall, the study shows that approximately 1 out of 500 children in the United States has experienced COVID-19-associated orphanhood or death of a grandparent caregiver. There were racial, ethnic, and geographic disparities in COVID-19-associated death of caregivers: children of racial and ethnic minorities accounted for 65% of those who lost a primary caregiver due to the pandemic.

Children's lives are permanently changed by the loss of a mother, father, or grandparent who provided their homes, basic needs, and care. Loss of a parent is among the adverse childhood experiences (ACEs) linked to mental health problems; shorter schooling; lower self-esteem; sexual risk behaviors; and increased risk of substance abuse, suicide, violence, sexual abuse, and exploitation.

"Children facing orphanhood as a result of COVID is a hidden, global pandemic that has sadly not spared the United States," said Susan Hillis, CDC researcher and lead author of the study. "All of us – especially our children – will feel the serious immediate and long-term impact of this problem for generations to come. Addressing the loss that these children have experienced – and continue to experience – must be one of our top priorities, and it must be woven into all aspects of our emergency response, both now and in the post-pandemic future."

The study was a collaboration between the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC), Imperial College London, Harvard University, Oxford University, and the University of Cape Town, South Africa. Published in the Oct. 7 issue of the journal Pediatrics, it was jointly led by CDC's COVID Response and Imperial College London, and partly funded by the National Institute on Drug Abuse (NIDA), part of the National Institutes of Health (NIH), as well as Imperial College London.

"The magnitude of young people affected is a sobering reminder of the devastating impact of the past 18 months," said Dr. Alexandra Blenkinsop, co-lead researcher, Imperial College London. "These findings really highlight those children who have been left most vulnerable by the pandemic, and where additional resources should be directed."

The analysis used mortality, fertility, and census data to estimate COVID-19-associated orphanhood (death of one or both parents) and deaths of custodial and co-residing grandparents between April 1, 2020, and June 30, 2021, for the U.S. broadly, and for every state. "COVID-19-associated deaths" refers to the combination of deaths caused directly by COVID-19 and those caused indirectly by associated causes, such as lockdowns, restrictions on gatherings and movement, decreased access or quality of health care and of treatment for chronic diseases. The data were also separated and analyzed by race and ethnicity, including White, Black, Asian, and American Indian/Alaska Native populations, and Hispanic and non-Hispanic populations.

The study authors estimate that 120,630 children in the U.S. lost a primary caregiver, (a parent or grandparent responsible for providing housing, basic needs and care) due to COVID-19-associated death. In addition, 22,007 children experienced the death of a secondary caregiver (grandparents providing housing but not most basic needs). Overall, 142,637 children are estimated to have experienced the death of at least one parent, or a custodial or other co-residing grandparent caregiver.

night. Good food and lively conversation heighten the atmosphere as visitors and family members enjoy each other's company. The only downside is that one of your gregarious friends may be feeling rather quiet tonight, listening when he or she is usually talking. Still, everyone's having fun, even if it's in a quieter way.

Scorpio 10/23-11/21

Too much to do around the house could have you running around like crazy. You may need to make a lot of calls, see too many people, or execute some rather tedious paperwork. This could have your nerves on edge by midafternoon, so take a few minutes for yourself every two hours or so. Step outside in the fresh air. This will calm you and help you stay sane.

Sagittarius 11/22-12/21

Did you celebrate last night? Happiness over a surprising turn of fortune is indicated, but so are a heavy head and hollow stomach from over-indulging in food and drink! You probably would have indulged more if the conversation hadn't been so intriguing. Take it easy today if you can. If you have a hectic day ahead, stay centered. Getting flustered can exacerbate your pain.

Capricorn 12/22-01/19

It's hard to stay centered now. Your mind is on something wonderful that's happening for you. Yesterday it was a fantasy and now it's real! You may be walking around in a daze trying to make sense of it all. Eventually you have to come down and face reality again, but there's no need to do it now. Things like this don't happen very often.

Aquarius 1/20-2/18

An impromptu gathering including some neighbors could take place today. Someone could start a round of gossip, and this could turn you off. You might wonder if they're going to start in on you when you leave! Don't stick around. Listening to such talk could give you a headache. Gossip is the last refuge of people who have no life.

Pisces 2/19-3/20

A temporary separation between you and a lover could have you experiencing mixed feelings. You may need some time to yourself, but you'll miss your friend! Your insecurity could come up, and you may start wondering if there's someone else with your partner. Concentrate on your projects and enjoy the peace and quiet. You're making mountains out of molehills.

Aries 3/21-4/19

This may be one of those days in which you don't feel like doing anything and you can't force yourself. While you're out you'll shop just enough to take care of essentials, and at home you'll probably veg out in front of the TV. Don't feel any guilt over it. We all need days like this. Take it easy, relax, and you'll be your old self again tomorrow.

Taurus 4/20-5/20

Spiritual concepts may seem elusive and incomprehensible today. You might have difficulty focusing on books and your mind could wander during lectures or meditation. Conversation should shed light on what's unclear to you. Ask friends who follow the same path. If nothing else, you'll enjoy the discussion.

Gemini 5/21-6/20

Someone once said that you can't be too rich, but today you may think this statement is false, at least when it comes to a friend. This person may have just come into some money and be discombobulated by it. He or she may ask your advice, but probably not follow it! Don't feel bad about it. It's out of your hands. At least you can manage your own funds.

Cancer 6/21-7/22

A romantic partner may appear to be more concerned with business than with you right now. Some decisions need making, and your friend could be preoccupied with them through most of the evening. Passion for you still runs strong, but it's been shoved into the background for now. Don't think that you've lost your appeal. Wait until tomorrow and all should be normal again.

Leo 7/23-8/22

You're likely feeling strong, healthy, and energetic. You might be inclined to take on huge tasks, some of which are more appropriate for three people than one. Be careful. You could take on more than you can handle. The strength and energy you feel now could wilt under too heavy a load. Pace yourself!

Virgo 8/23-9/22

Today you may be obsessed with romance. Racy novels could be especially appealing, and you might try some experiments with how you look in order to enhance your sex appeal. If you try to schedule an intimate encounter with a partner, don't be surprised if there are obstacles, such as your friend's work. You might have to wait until tomorrow!
