Partnerships Are Key to Disrupting Violent Plots With the Terror Threat Growing More Insular, Awareness and Reporting Are Crucial

When acts of terrorism occur, the public sees the FBI respond and investigate alongside our partner agencies. What is less visible to the public is the intense, constant work the FBI is doing to prevent future attacks.

“The more significant part of what the FBI does is get ahead of the attack with intelligence,” said Jill Sanborn, executive assistant director of the FBI’s National Security Branch. “The majority of the FBI’s work—and really where we’ve grown since 9/11 as an intelligence organization—is how we take the intelligence that we have and look for potential threats and then investigate those to disrupt them.

For example, in 2018, acting on a tip about an individual who expressed a desire to recruit people to kill Americans, the FBI arrested an Ohio man plotting to attack a July 4 celebration.

Sanborn says that the increasingly insular nature of the terrorism threat, however, is a growing challenge for the FBI and its partners as they work to disrupt plots. Individuals or small groups can radicalize and plan an attack with few outside contacts, or, as Sanborn describes it, fewer dots for law enforcement to connect.

This is especially true

Meth+

Manuel Mora Gutierrez, 32, Garlin Machine Road Loudon, was charged with Mfg/Del/Sale or Poss. Of Meth, Contraband in Penal Institution, and Aggravated Assault.

Salvador Mora Gutierrez, 34, Ardin Street Loudon, was charged with Aggravated Assault, General Session Capias x2, and Municipal Court Capias.

Officer Samuel Harrison LPD, was dispatched to a vandalism incident, located at Arden Street, in the City of Loudon. Upon arrival Officer was met by Salvador Mora Gutierrez who stated that he had been in an argument with his brother, Manuel Mora Gutierrez, over money. Salvador advises that Manuel drove up to his residence and confronted him about $500 that he supposedly owed him. A very heated argument ensued with both parties threatening the other. During the altercation, Manuel threatened to fight Salvador. Salvador then went into the residence, stating he was going to kill him, and retrieved a .22 rifle. Manuel states that Salvador then began shooting at him from a kitchen window. Salvador advises that he began shooting because Manuel was throwing large rocks at him through the kitchen window, and that he shot the rifle to disable Manuel's vehicle by flattening the tires so Manuel couldn't leave. Officer did observe a shattered kitchen window and a large rock

Assault

Gavin Gambuzza, 23, Turnberry Circle Lenoir City, was charged with Domestic Assault.

Deputy Rodriguez LCSO, responded to Turnberry Road in regards to a domestic disturbance. Upon arrival, Deputy spoke with witness, who advised she and family were having a dinner on the back deck of the residence. Gavin Gambuzza, arrestee, had been drinking alcohol and had got into an argument due to Mr. Gambuzza being disrespectful. During the verbal altercation, arrestee's sister, got in between both parties and started arguing with Mr. Gambuzza. Mr. Gambuzza kept asking victim to strike him and she refused. Victim advised Mr. Gambuzza became even more irate and through a punch towards her. She advised he missed her, and struck her friend. Victim was in fear for her safety because of Mr. Gambuzza was intoxicated and mentally unstable. Due to multiple witnesses' statements, Mr. Gambuzza was determined to be the primary aggressor and was taken into custody. This occurred in Loudon County, Tn.

laying in the kitchen floor. Officer also observed that the rear passenger tire of Manuel's vehicle was flat, and also confirmed from neighbors that they heard at least 3 gun shots.

Officer also secured two .22 rifles from within Salvador's residence. Both were arrested for Aggravated Domestic Assault.

It was also discovered through the 911 Center that Salvador had two warrants for his arrest out of Lenoir City.

Both were transported to the Loudon County Jail without incident. However, once in the jail, a folded dollar bill was located within Manuel's wallet, that contained a very small amount of a white powder substance, believed to be methamphetamine. Manuel was additionally charged with Possession of Methamphetamines. Said actions did occur on this date in the City of Loudon.

Partnerships

for domestic terrorism—defined as violent, criminal acts committed by individuals or groups to further ideological goals stemming from domestic influences, such as those of a political, religious, social, racial, or environmental nature.

Because the FBI's mission includes protecting the free speech rights of Americans, we need a clear reason to act or investigate. A person's beliefs can never be the sole reason to open an investigation.

As FBI Director Christopher Wray said: "The FBI holds sacred the rights of individuals to peacefully exercise their First Amendment freedoms." But he also stressed that the FBI will investigate any time an "individual uses, or threatens the use of, force, violence, or coercion, in violation of federal law."

The FBI is leaning even more on two things that have long been essential to its success: partnerships and help from an aware and informed public.

To get ahead of a threat, the FBI needs evidence that someone is contemplating or moving toward an act of violence. That can be a difficult to attain.

Violence never truly comes out of nowhere, but the signs may be small and subtle or evident to just a few people. Which is why the FBI is leaning even more on two things that have long been essential to its success: partnerships and help from an aware and informed public.

Building Threat Management Teams

Special Agent John Wyman spent the first part of his FBI career working terrorism cases—both international and domestic. He brought that background into his current role as the head of the FBI's Behavioral Threat Assessment Center (BTAC). In the last several years, BTAC has intensified its efforts to build teams that cross agencies, specialties, and expertise. Teams that give us the best chance of preventing attacks.

BTAC leans on research and diverse expertise to detect threats of violence and lead intervention and management efforts. Using research from past attacks, the center compiled characteristics common to lone offender terrorists and detailed signs that a person may be moving toward violence. Wyman said that while the motivators and drivers for violence are highly individualized, those who commit violence travel an observable and discernable pathway from thought to action.

One of BTAC's goals is to help the public understand how to recognize these signs and grow confident enough in what they are seeing to report it to the FBI or a state or local law enforcement partner.

You should reach out to law enforcement if someone you know:

Voices a belief that violence is necessary and justified or is the only option available to solve a problem

Becomes suddenly secretive about certain activities

Shows a new, inexplicable interest in developing capabilities or acquiring equipment that could be used in an attack

Wyman describes these signs and others in more detail in this episode of Inside the FBI.

If you notice one or more of these behaviors in someone, you shouldn't worry about how to characterize or define what you are seeing. "From the bystanders, we don't need the assessment beyond that this is concerning," Wyman said. The FBI will take in the tip, assess and investigate it, and determine a course of action.

"When these cases come in, we want to know who this person is and what particularly is making this person move down the pathway toward violence," Wyman said. "Everyone's potential journey is going to be highly individualized and specific to that person. It's the mix between ideologies, past life experiences, past trauma, the existing life stressors. We've got to understand that to make sound and effective management decisions."

"We are investigating this for a law enforcement purpose, but at the same time, we know that not all of the solutions are law enforcement solutions. These are complex problems that require complex solutions.

Horoscopes

Horoscope

Taurus 4/20-5/20

A number of loving communications may come your way from people who live in distant states or exotic lands. You're feeling especially affectionate now, Taurus, particularly regarding those closest to you. It might not be a bad idea to get on the phone and talk to people you may not have seen in a long time. They will be glad to hear from you!

Gemini 5/21-6/20

A small amount of money might come your way today, Gemini. It could be a gift, dividend, or bonus. You may want to squander it on gifts for yourself and others rather than put it to more practical use, which is perfectly fine! Books may be especially appealing, particularly those on new spiritual or metaphysical ideas. Set some time aside for a little reading.

Cancer 6/21-7/22

You should feel and look great today, Cancer. Your charm and social skills are at a high level, and your joviality and gift for conversation should make you a welcome guest at any social event. And you should be invited to a lot of them - perhaps too many! Enjoy this special time of sociability and friendship.

Leo 7/23-8/22

Your psychic abilities and imagination are operating at a very high level, Leo. You face other people with a profound, spiritual love. They will return it! You might want to write down your thoughts or draw pictures of whatever pops into your mind, even if you don't feel you have talent. It's more important to keep a record for you than set things down for posterity.

Virgo 8/23-9/22

Some friends associated with a group you admire might take you to some kind of rally, Virgo. This could be a lot of fun for you. You could make some new friends. You're naturally inclined toward humanitarian concerns, and these might be the focus of some animated discussions today. Take in all the information and consider it later. Right now your mind is overwhelmed!

Libra 9/23-10/22

You're naturally a kind, compassionate person, Libra. Today your feelings are likely to be focused not only on those close to you but also on all the world's population. A feeling of unity with the billions you've never met could overwhelm you now. You might want to write down your impressions so you can refer to them later. You might otherwise forget it all.

Scorpio 10/23-11/21

With today's planetary aspects, Scorpio, you're likely to feel a rush of love. This includes love for family, friends, partner, and all life forms. The reality of spiritual advancement through love is all around you. Your artistic sensibilities are very high, so you might want to write, draw, or paint something that captures your thoughts and feelings.

Sagittarius 11/22-12/21

You're feeling especially loving and passionate, Sagittarius, and likely to want to pursue a romantic encounter with the special person in your life. Money matters look positive, as your intuition regarding money management has been working well and is likely to continue. Your psychic and intuitive faculties are wide open and receptive. Don't be surprised by what you pick up today, even from strangers.

Capricorn 12/22-01/19

Today is a great time to form or strengthen romantic relationships, Capricorn. If you aren't involved, chances are you will meet someone. If you are, expect your relationship to develop a new spiritual bond. New friendships, particularly with people who share your interests, are on the horizon. The coming years will be a time when everyone will have to pull together. Today you get a head start.

Aquarius 1/20-2/18

This is an ideal day to begin a creative venture, Aquarius. You've had many ideas and creative urges. Today it's time to choose one and take the first step to making your vision a reality. You will find that the form will change. This is no reason to be discouraged. It's part of the normal evolution of any work of art. The key here is to begin.

Pisces 2/19-3/20

Your naturally loving nature gets a boost today, Pisces. You could look especially attractive, so don't be surprised if you draw admiring looks from strangers. Romantic novels and movies could seem appealing now, but you're more interested in the real thing. If you can, try to schedule alone time with the special person in your life. You won't regret it!

Aries 3/21-4/19

Your energy might turn toward beautifying your home, Aries. Perhaps you've decided to repaint or go in a completely new direction in your decorating taste. Posters or other souvenirs of foreign lands might also be especially appealing now. Expect someone to drop by and bring some interesting news that might get your mind going a thousand miles an hour.
