UPDATE ON DANNY GOUGE JR. AND RODNEY LOWERY WHO WERE INDICTED FOR INSURANCE FRAUD BY THE ROANE COUNTY GRAND JURY IN FEBRUARY

District Attorney submitted a claim to General Russell Johnson predicated a TBI investigation in October 2020 regarding a 2019 insurance claim submitted on a "stolen" off-road vehicle. TBI Agents determined that Rodney Lowery the owner of the off road vehicle made a false report about the theft to the Roane County Sheriff's Office and submitted a claim to his insurance company. The investigation also uncovered that Danny Gouge Jr. falsified a bill of sale to further the fraudulent insurance claim.

In February, the Roane County Grand Jury indicted Gouge for one count of insurance fraud, one count of conspiracy to commit insurance fraud,

Director Wray Meets with Sheriffs to Discuss Partnerships, Progress, and Challenges

FBI Director Christopher Wray met in recent weeks with representatives of the nation's leading sheriff's organizations to reaffirm the FBI's commitment to strong partnerships and to discuss the myriad challenges facing law enforcement agencies.

"We're working right beside you, at really combat tempo, to lend as much support as we can," Wray said.

Wray delivered remarks at annual conferences of the Major County Sheriffs of America and the non-profit National Sheriffs' Association in Washington, D.C. Together, the organizations represent thousands of law enforcement professionals nationwide whose jurisdictions cover more than 130 million citizens.

Wray addressed the winter conference of Major County Sheriffs of America on January 31. The professional organization represents approximately 110 of the largest elected sheriff's offices in counties or parishes with populations of 500,000. Then this week, on February 8, he spoke at the National Sheriffs' Association's conference.

Topics included crime and national security challenges like violent crimes, gangs, drugs, border crime, terrorism, and violent extremism. During each meeting, Director Wray expressed concern about the continueing increase in murder rates, the release of repeat or dangerous offenders from prison, and the rise in radicalized juveniles inspired by violent radical ideologies and extremist groups.

And discussion of the brutal beating death of Tyre Nichols by five Memphis police officers, captured on video, was top of mind for leaders at both conferences. "What happened was tragic and inexcusable," Director Wray said. "I was appalled by the video and deeply troubled by what I saw." The video, he insisted, is not reflective of the men and women in law enforcement "who go about their job in the right way."

Director Wray also detailed how transnational gangs are fueling violent crime across the country by finding ways to move their people, drugs, guns, and money into local communities. Even the success of authorities in El Salvador—where they have arrested nearly 60,000 gang members since last March—has forced more violent criminals to flee to the U.S. to avoid the crackdown.

"These are complex international problems that require us to put our heads, our tools, and our efforts together," the Director said.

That depth of collaboration underscores the importance of established partnerships and like those of the organizations. Throughout his remarks, Director Wray cited several examples of successful teamwork:

Thanks largely to more than 300 violent crime task forces nationwide, the FBI and its partners arrested over 20,000 violent criminals and child predators from October 2021 to September 2022. Some 370 gangs and violent criminal enterprises were completely dismantled, with their leaders arrested and their assets seized. The criminal capabilities of another 3,500 organizations were also impeded.

At the southwest border, the FBI and its partners made more than 560 arrests and disrupted dozens of gangs and transnational criminal organizations in 2022.

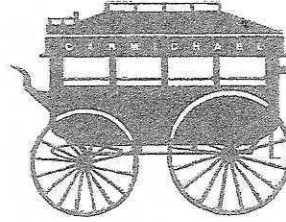

In one case involving extremist radicalization, the FBI arrested a 14-year-old—obsessed with the Columbine shooters, ISIS, and neo-Nazis and who expressed a desire to kill as many people as possible—from carrying out his violent plans. The prevention took place thanks to support and proactive input from local law enforcement partners, a mental health provider, and other professionals. It's part of a new "behavior-focused approach that brings in non-traditional partners like hospitals and social services to get teenagers off the path to violence," the Director said.

have a sudden inspiration, perhaps influenced by a distant place. Don't be afraid to take time from your mundane chores to pursue this inspiration. Creativity is as important as anything else.

Pisces 2/19-3/20

A romantic evening at home with your partner could bring you two closer together, Pisces. Your emotions are intense right now, however, so you need to use your intuition to judge exactly how much of your feelings you should reveal. An intellectual passion could also come your way. You might discover a new field of interest, and you will want to study it at home for hours.

Aries 3/21-4/19

Information received from far away could compel you to learn more about the subject, Aries. You might be inspired to use your new knowledge in a project that includes a partner. Your mind is insightful now. If you face decisions, this is definitely the day to follow your heart. Don't be surprised if you also find your telepathic abilities expanded.

Taurus 4/20-5/20

Money matters may be advanced through using your intuition and inner power today, Taurus. You might have a hunch that your idea for making extra money might just work. Look into it at least. Don't let anyone talk you out of it until you know the facts. You might also rediscover a long-neglected talent that you find useful now.

Gemini 5/21-6/20

A surge of inner power could make you feel like you can move mountains, Gemini. If you've been contemplating actions that others believe impossible, this is the day to get them going.
